Poetry.

The Farmer Feedeth All.

My lord rides through his palace gate
My lady sweeps along in state.
The sage thinks long on many a thing,
And the maiden muses on marrying;
The minstrel harpeth merrily,
The sailor plows the foaming sea,
The huntsman kills the good red deer,
And the soldier wars without'en fear;
But fall to each, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Smith hammereth cherry red the sword,
Priest preacheth pure the Holy word,
Dame Alice worketh broidery well,
Clerk Richard tales of love can tell;
The tap-wife sells her foaming beer,
Dan Fisher fisheth in the mere,
And courtiers ruffle, strut, and shine,
While pages bring the Gascon wine;
But fall to each, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Man builds his castle fair and high,
Whatever river runneth by;
Great cities rise in every land,
Great churches show the builder's hand,
Great arches, monuments and towers,
Fair palaces and pleasing bowers;
Great work is done, but here or there,
And well man worketh every where;
But work or rest, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Selected Story.

Marion's Trust.

Howard Clifford was a single man aged thirty-five, and lived upon a farm in a small New England village. The only members of the household, besides himself, were Dennis O'Brien, his manservant, Mrs. Watson, his housekeeper, and Marion Clark, who assisted Mrs. Watson in performing the household duties.

He lived a very secluded life, and had very few near neighbors. His property he inherited from his father, and was said to be the richest man in the country.

At the close of a dull November day, he was busily employed; in what served him as a sitting-room, library, and office, in looking over a package of papers, when he was interrupted by Dennis.

"What is it, Dennis?" he inquired, looking up from his paper.

"A dispatch, sir, from B——; it has just arrived."

Mr. Clifford took it, and looked it over, then turning to Dennis, exclaimed:

"Dennis, harness up immediately, and prepare to take me to H——. I wish to get there in season to take the last train to B——. Here Marion," as he observed her passing the door, "I wish you take care of these papers for me; and in this drawer," walking to an old-fashioned secretary that stood in one corner, "is a package of money that I intended to invest to-morrow, but my sudden journey to B—— will prevent."

"Are you going away to remain all night, sir?" timidly inquired Marion.

"Yes, I have just received a telegram informing me of the dangerous illness of an old friend, one whom I knew in my school-boy days, and we entered into an agreement with each other, that when one of us was taken away, or on our dying bed, that the other should, if by any means possible, visit him. I have just received intelligence that this friend is dying, and I must try and catch the train for B—— to-night. Dennis will take me to H——, but will get back here before it is time to shut up the house, so you need not feel any afraid during my absence."

"Do you know, sir, if you shall be gone more than one night?" she asked.

"I cannot tell," he replied. "Probably not. I shall hire a conveyance home from the station at H——, as Dennis will not know when to come for me."

At this moment Dennis reappeared, requiring information regarding the horse to be taken. Mr. Clifford went down with him, leaving Marion to collect the scattered papers. These she put into the drawer designed by Mr. Clifford, closed it, locked it, and put the key in her pocket. She then replenished the fire, and drawing an arm-chair near, sat down and busied herself with a book.

Soon she heard the departure of the carriage, after which she ascended the stairs and entered the room where Marion sat. They remained there until they heard the sound of wheels, when they both descended to the kitchen. It was Dennis returned from H——. After he had taken care of his team, he and Mrs. Watson together proceeded to close up the house. He then immediately proceeded to his chamber. Mrs. Watson also retired, and Marion again entered the sitting-room. She locked the door and withdrew the key, with the intention of passing an hour or two in reading. But she found the book less interesting than before, so she closed it and sat gazing abstractedly into the fire. And with a strange persistency her mind ran upon all the horrible stories she had ever read or heard. In vain did she picture to herself a happy home, with herself as mistress (for Marion was but nineteen, and like all young girls, was given to building castles in the air); in vain did she try to bend her thoughts to any subject her visions, bright and golden, all ending with a thought of the money in the drawer, and that it was in her care, and she must guard it spite of everything. And then she would go over in her mind the particulars of some robbery, which had been in her thoughts, perhaps, for years.

Determined, at last to rid herself of such foolish thoughts, she arose and walked to the window; but it was dark without—so dark that she could not see the least thing—not even the trees that stood in front of the house. As she walked back to her seat she cast her eyes around the room, to assure herself that everything was as it should be, and put out the light. The fire afforded light enough so that she could see all parts of the room distinctly, and drawing her chair a little nearer, and throwing a shawl over her shoulders, she settled herself down for a nap, having made up her mind to remain there for the night. Her visions of robbers and assassins had left her, and in a short time she was asleep.

She had slept, perhaps, for two or three hours, when she was awakened by a slight noise. She could not tell, at first, what it was, but it was soon repeated, and she knew that some one was trying to unlock the door. In a short time they succeeded, and she heard them stealthily cross the room. By this time the fire had burned down and the room was in total darkness, but the robber brought with him a dark lantern, which he placed upon the secretary in such position that Marion could see his movements plainly while she was entirely hidden from view. She sat there and watched him, almost stupefied with terror, until he had succeeded in fitting a key into the drawer which contained the package of money, and opened it. Then she thought, "if he should chance to see me after he obtains the money, he would not hesitate to murder me." So she resolved to make one effort to save herself and the money too. She remembered that as she glanced around before putting out the lights, she had noticed standing in one corner of the fireplace, an old-fashioned iron poker. And now while he was busy looking over the drawer for the money, she noiselessly crept across the hearth, possessed herself of the poker, and with a prayer in her heart for aid, swiftly and silently made her way behind him, and with all her strength she brought it down upon his head. With a deep groan he sank down upon the floor. It was but a moment for Marion to secure the money, close and lock the drawer, removing the keys which she had left hanging in the lock, and possessing herself of the lantern, leave the room. She closed and locked the door upon the villain, and hastened up the stairs to arouse Dennis. Receiving no answer to her knocks and calls she opened the door and looked in. He was not there, but his boots were sitting beside the bed, which looked as though he had lain down on the outside. A terrible suspicion broke upon her mind; the thief down stairs and Dennis were one and the same. He had overheard Mr. Clifford when he was talking about the money to her; for although he had left the room, he could not have got out of hearing—and had made up his mind to gain possession of it. And now if he should come to himself and escape from the room where she left him, he could easily overpower her and Mrs. Watson, for he well knew there was no one else in the house, and the nearest neighbors lived half a mile off. With these thoughts in her mind she hurried to Mrs. Watson's room, and awakened her by violently shaking her by the arm.

"Good gracious, Marion, what is the matter?" she exclaimed; "you act as though you had seen a ghost!"

"I have not," returned Marion; "but there is a man in the sitting room, with a mask on, and I believe it is Dennis."

"Dennis! Well, what does he want with a mask?"

"I cannot tell; it may not be he, but why is he not in his room?"

Mrs. Watson was now thoroughly awakened, and had began to comprehend what Marion was saying.

She arose hastily from her bed, and dressed herself, and having fastened the door, Marion related to her what had transpired. She was, if possible more frightened that Marion had been, fearing that he would come and murder them. Marion assured her that he could not. She had locked him into the room, and besides, he lay senseless upon the floor. But she insisted that she should arise and look open the door, and he would be sure to come there; he would be enraged at losing the money, and it would have been much better if Marion had let him keep it, and crept out and left him there. "She was sure she could hear him coming up the stairs, now." And thus she kept Marion and herself in torture, until daylight began to dawn.

With increasing light her courage began to return, and she consented to accompany Marion down to the, sitting-room door and ascertain if they could, if he was still alive. They listened intently before venturing to enter the room, but could hear no sound. Summoning all her courage Marion opened the door and looked in. The room was empty. An open window revealed the way the villain had secured his liberty. He had clambered down by a trellis that supported some vines by the window, and made good his escape; and although Mr. Clifford, upon his return, offered a reward for his apprehension, he was never heard of in that part of the world again.

Many years have passed since then, and Marion is now the mistress of a happy home, the cherished wife of Howard Clifford; and she has been heard to say more than once, that that night of terror brought her the greatest happiness of her life.

The following is said to have been the last thing written by Artemus Ward:

"Until recently, quite recently, I've been a healthy individual. I'm nearly sixty, and yet I've got a muscle onto my arms which don't make my fists resemble the tail of a canary bird when they fly out and hit aman.

"Only a few weeks ago I was exhibitin' in east Sheyboygan, in a buildin' which had formerly occupied the list—one of the fellers what hits from the shoulder and teaches the manley art of self defense.

"And he come and sed he was going in consequence of his previ'sly ockepying sed building with a large yaller dog.

"He sed, 'Oh, yes.'

"I sed, Ah, no.'

"He sed, 'Do you want to be ground to powder?'

"I sed, 'Yes, if there is a powder grindist anywhere handy,' when he struck me a disgusting blow in my left eye, which caused that concern to close up for repairs, but he didn't hurt me any more. I went for him energetically. His parents lived near by, and I will simply state that fifteen minuts after I had gone for him, his mother, seeing the prostrate form of her son approachin' the house onto a shutter, carried by four men, ran out of doors, keerfully lookin' over him, and sed:

"'My son, you have been foolin' round a thrashin' masheen. You went in at the end they put the grain in, and came out with the straw, and then got up in the thingumagig and let the horse trod on you, didn't you my son?'

"You can imagine by this what a disagreable person I am when I'm angry."

A married woman in Michigan, the mother of the three children and the wife of a kind and prosperous husband, lately deserted her family and went to live as a common domestic in a family at Detroit, under the insane notion that her carlessness and extravagance would bring her family to poverty. After a long search she was found and restored to her home

Mary had a little lamb, with hair as fine as silk; the longer Mary lived, the more she found that lamb a bilk; for all that hair was only flax, on that deceitful brute; but Mary hadn't much to say, for her's was only jute.

A Memory.

BY L. MARIA CHILD.

Many years ago, when it was June, in the seasons, and the June of my youth, I went to ride with the young lover who is now my old lover. The young birches, dressed in white, with lively green trimmings, were moving to the breath of the breeze, as light and airy as a troop of dancing girls. Spring had decorated every tree and shrub with her garlands tender, delicate verdure; the sun was bright, the air was genial, the sky was pure azure, with here and there a fleecy cloud floating like a bridal vail borne aloft by the winds; the birds were newly married, and poured forth their love in gushes of soug. What wonder I remember so well that time when Nature and I were young together, in the mating-season which brings human souls into spontaneous sympathy with all life and love?

We rode on like a prince and princess through fairy-land, till we came to an inn with the sign of a black horse swinging in the wind. It was an old establishment, known to all the surrounding region as "Adam Howe's Tavern." When his English ancestor came to this country, he bought the land, long before there were any villages in its neighborhood, and built a house thereon. Such travelers as passed that way always found hospitable welcome, and refreshment "for man and beast." The Howes being industrious and economical, prospered well. Generation after generation of the family raised abundant crops, whereon they fed themselves and the public. Villages grew up around them, and entered into business relations with Boston, and the old patriarchal homestead became more and more noted as the traveler's home.

How well I remember that quaint old room where we dined! The posts that supported the ceiling stood jutting out, and the massive beams that held the frame of the building together were visible overhead. The oaken floor was white with constant scourings, and looked more refreshingly clean than paint can ever look. The looking-glass was adorned with peacocks' feathers and under it hung a plump pincushion in the shape of a heart, bearing pins arranged in the words, "Remember me." Of course the pins were never taken out, the cushion being considered a work of art, an ornament forever. On the opposite wall hung a framed picture of the family coat of arms, brought from England by the ancestor whose ax first let sunlight into these woods. Through an open window in the rear of the house came the fragrance of lilac bushes, and the pleasant prattling of a copious brook that ran sparkling across the green meadow. Before the front window strutted a peacock, with his tail spread to the sunshine like a great oriental fan studded with gems. The creature seemed to have coquettish consciousness of its beauty; for he would open it proudly then lower it slowly, slowly, so that the subduing irradiation the prismatic hues as they fell, and made them look like a dripping shower of sapphires and emeralds. I had always before seen the bird carry his plumage in a trail of glory behind him; and this new exhibition of the gorgeous tints outspread and shimmering in the sunshine so delighted me that I clapped my hands and shouted. Could sparkling brooks and the radiance of peacocks' feathers fill me with such gladness now? I am still childish in my love of all forms of beauty, but not with the running-over joyousness of youth.

The dinner was plain and old fashioned, like all else around us; but everything was delicious. The flavor of the butter was as delicate and sweet as the fragrance of new hay, and its hue was golden without the modern aid of coloring-matter. The bread was such as can only be made by a skillful cook from grain which the sunshine has filled with saccharine. I never recall that wholesome repast without being reminded of Milton's Allegro:

"Where Corydon and Thyrsis met,
Are at their savory dinner set,
Of herbs and other country messes,
Which the neat-handed Phyllis dresses."

In our case the "neat-handed Phyllis" was Gerusha, sole daughter of Adam Howe, aided by a faithful house-friend near 70 years old, who had served in the family all her days, and was still as indispensable to the house as the house was to her. Miss Howe seemed like one who had never been young and gay. Her manner had somewhat of Puritanical primness, and she looked as if she took life very seriously. But her father said, "Gerusha is as good as gold;" and her sober face was an index of a thoroughly honest and guileless character. She and her father and brothers treated us more like welcome friends, than like travelers stopping at a tavern. It reminded me of Dr. Johnson's remark, that the best home a man can have is a good inn. I felt sorry to leave, and looked back lovingly upon the patriarchal old dwelling standing in the midst of fertile fields encircled by 300 acres of woodland.

I never saw the old place again. Years afterward, Gerusha made me a visit. Her father was dead, and I knew she had troubles, though she tried to hide them. A shadow had long been coming over the sunshine of her home; the shadow which had enveloped so many homes in utter darkness. Travelers who stopped there to rest their teams were accustomed to call for strong drink; and the brother, on whom she depended to sustain the reputation of the old establishment, paid the penalty which so many tavern-keepers have paid for their familiarity with the accursed thing. Everything about him degenerated from its ancient thriftiness, and began so wear a shabby and disconsolate aspect. Gerusha died; debts accumulated; and finally the primitive old homestead, with its fair acres of pasture and woodland, passed into the hands of strangers.

Longfellow has immortalized it as "The Wayside Inn;" but it is an inn no longer. Indeed, all the cozy country taverns have vanished from this land, as completely as the once hospitable abbeys have disappeared from Europe. The splendid glare of modern hotels eclipses their memory; but in them we should seek in vain for any such snug corner for comfort as that homely and home-like old room, to which the lilac bushes wafted their fragrance and the brook sang its song of freshness.

In hotels,

"there's, of course, everything of the best,
Gout, headache and fever, and pains in the chest;"

but the plain, healthy food of the old-fashioned New-England taverns cannot be found there; and as for taking one's ease in one's inn in these places of perpetual dress-parade, it is a thing not to be thought of. Inebriation is more elegant than of old in its allurements; it offers its poison in ruby-tinted glass, and entices men through the pleasant alley of social companionship into the dark abyss that forever engulfs their manhood.—National Standard.

Grand Jury Stories.

Col. T. W. Knox, in Scribner's for March, has an article on the famous New York Grand Jury of which he was a member. We quote from it as follows:

Not many days after we were convened, a case that touched the heart of every man in the room was brought before us. A young girl had been accused of theft; a few dollars in money had been stolen; it was found in her possession, and she had made partial confession. The complainant was a woman, and the accused had been in her employ. When the case was called the woman entered the jury-room and was sworn by the foreman. She took the chair assigned to witnesses, and the foreman questioned her.

"Did you lose some money?"

"Yes, sir."

"When did you lose it?"

"On the first day of December."

"Who took it?"

"The girl named in the complaint."

"How do you know she took it?"

"I found it in her possession, and she confessed taking it."

"That will do; you can go."

But the woman kept her seat, and moved her hands uneasily. "You can go," said the foreman again, but she did not start. A juror sitting near the door rose to show her out, and as he did so the woman said:—

"I do not wish to press the complaint. I want to withdraw it, and have the girl released."

"Why so?" asked the foreman.

"Because," and her voice began to choke, "because the girl is young and I do not wish to ruin her. Somebody else urged her to steal the money, and I think she will do better in future. If I send her to prison she may become a professional thief, but if I give her a chance she will be a good girl. She is an orphan and has no friends, and I want to be her friend. I know she is guilty, but I want to be merciful, and I beg you to be merciful, gentlemen."

Half her utterance was drowned with tears, which flowed rapidly down her face. The foreman told her to step outside and he would call her again in a few moments, and inform her of the result of her eloquent appeal. "Be merciful, gentlemen," were her last words as she closed the door.

It was voted to dismiss the complaint, and when the foreman called her to the room, told her of the result of the vote, and commended her for her kindness of heart, her tears flowed afresh, and she thanked us through broken sobs. I know that in that room more eyes than hers were wet—eyes not accustomed to tears.

But soon a discussion arose as to the propriety [illegible] Jury was impaneled, the following oath was administered to the foreman:

"You, Lucius S. Comstock, as Foreman of this Grand Inquest, shall diligently inquire and true presentment make, of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge; the counsel for the People of this State, your fellows and your own, you shall keep secret; you shall present no one from envy, hatred, or malice; nor shall you leave any one unpresented through fear, favor, affection, or hope of reward; but you shall present all things truly as they come to your knowledge, according to your understanding: So help you God!"

And to the other members the following oath was administered:—

"The same oath which your Foreman has taken on his part, you, and each of you, shall well and truly observe and keep on your part: So help you God!"

Some of the jurors thought we had no right, under our oath, to show favor, no matter how strong might be the appeal to our sympathies. Every man in the room wished to be lenient, but at the same time, above all other things, wished to do his duty. The discussion resulted in our sending for the District Att

A FEW FACTS.

The intelligent traveler who has passed over most of the older settled Northern States and then visits the South is struck with the fact that while nearly every acre of ground in the former is cultivated and made productive, in the latter not one fourth of the area is under cultivation. He knows that the latter States were settled as early as the former; that they began the race together, and he sees that for natural advantages the latter have had the palm. But he sees too that while the former are thriving, are productive, are rich, the latter present in appearance the very opposite. These facts lead him to inquire the cause. And this inquiry leads him back to the past as well as to take cognizance of the present.

In the North the system of Free Labor was adopted and the civilization of Free Institutions practiced. These possessed the elasticity and adaptability which accommodated themselves to the demands of the times—adventurous, speculative, aggressive and progressive. In the South the opposite civilization was adopted, a system repressive, deadening, conservative and wonderfully afraid of change. The traveler needs no argument to satisfy him as to which system was the best. The good old Scripture text, "By their fruits ye shall know them," is ocularly demonstrated, and the striking contrast more than ever satisfies him that the institution of Slavery was materially a curse to the Southern people. He sees that it retarded their progress, and that since its removal there is a chance for the South: that since the "sectional civilization" of Slavery has given way to one that henceforth will be national, immigration is pouring in—honest, hard-working, thrifty immigrants, who will build up the waste places, and if encouraged and kindly treated, will soon cause the South to far outstrip the North in development and wealth and power.

THE FOOLISH DEMOCRACY.

As the campaign begins to open up the democratic journals of North Carolina are beginning to assume a tone demonstrating the fact that they are practically old Bourbons, determined to forget nothing nor to learn anything. It is foolish; it is madness. Every man who reflects is satisfied that the "peculiar institution" is gone—gone to return no more forever, and that by the grace of fate and the American Eagle the colored man is a citizen and voter. And yet our democratic cotemporaries are mournfully and continuously looking back—back. They hesitate to stand face to face with that which is inevitable Oh what folly. The past is dead. The old order of things can never be restored—never. The true friends of North Carolina, instead of grumbling and eternally complaining, will go manfully to work to build up, improve, advance. By so doing they can carve out for our good old State a destiny worthy her genial clime, her splendid geographical position, and her truly grand resources and opportunities. But from present indications this must be accomplished, if at all, in spite of the Democracy. Their mad and foolish course is not calculated to aid in the good work.

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

The following are the counties forming the First Congressional District under the new apportionment. We also give the vote of 1870 and the vote for and against Convention in 1871. The Republicans can carry it.

Pamlico is a new County made from parts of Craven, Beaufort and Carterett. It is estimated that it will give a Democratic majority of 100.

We see that a bill was introduced in Congress the other day by Mr. COBB amendatory of existing laws, and granting bounties to colored soldiers of the United States who were slaves previously to the 19th day of April, 1861. The bill was referred to the Millitary Committee.

Place a man in a position where he needs nothing and he will do nothing. Like Paddy firing at a mark, he will aim at nothing and hit it every time.

We call attention to the article on "Grant's Administration" in another column. Read it carefully.

OUR FUTURE.

There are natural advantages here at Elizabeth City which few other towns or sections of country possess. That they have not been made available, and as a result made the town and adjacent country outstrip other sections, is not the fault of Nature, but rather that of the spirit of old fogyism that has ruled so long. Many have the means but not the public spirit to appropriate them in the way most to contribute to the public good. Slow, timid, fearful, they have neglected to take the "tide at its flood," and have let it to pass on, losing the benefits and profits that might have been theirs. We repeat that many of them have the means, but not the energy and enterprise. And thus it has been for an age. The example and teachings of the fathers have been transmitted to the children. No wonder there was no improvement, no development, no progress! No wonder the great material interests of Elizabeth City were left to suffer!

But happily for the people and the country, a new era is dawning. Old fogyism is losing its hold—is disappearing. A new element is being infused among them and causing the roar of trade to drown their dismal croakings. Men of pluck—men who are quick, active and energetic—are taking hold and will make themselves "masters of the situation." "Go a head" is their motto, and they live up to it. Instead of looking back, they keep on looking forward, and going forward. This class of men are availing themselves of the great advantages here supplied by Nature, and they will make them tell. Five years hence, Elizabeth City will present a very different appearance from what it does now.

In the time of peril the great Republican Party proved itself to be the nation's safeguard and saviour. It is the grand organization of the once divided but now United States. It is just as important that it remain in power now as ever before. The future is pregnant with political events. The peace and prosperity of the country demands that the Democracy be defeated in the coming election. In the nation a President is to be elected, and in the State a Governor and Congressmen and Members of the Legislature, as well as important County Officers. To secure success there must be union and harmony. And of the first importance is it that good, reliable, worthy and competent men be selected as our standard bearers. Without this there will be great danger that the sceptre will fall into the hands of Freedom's enemy.

From all the indications it looks as though there were serious breakers ahead of the rickety old Democratic ship. That there are two factions we have incontestable evidence, and the way they are charging each other with corruption is really refreshing. It is reported that the regular, old line, simon pure Democracy is to cut loose from the old line Whigs hitherto fraternizing with them. The new organ—the News—which is to be started on the 1st of March, is to represent the par excellence Democracy and the Sentinel is to be the organ of the old line Whig Democracy. There will be lively times.

There are already two Presidential tickets in the field. The National Prohibitionist held a Convention at Columbia, O., a few days ago and nominated James Black, of Pennsylvania, for President, and John Russell, of Michigan, for Vice President, and the National Labor Reform Convention, which met at the same place on the 21st and organized, nominated David Davis, of Illinois, for President, and Gov. Joel Parker, of New Jersey, for Vice President. If there is any advantage in an early start these parties have it; but we are pretty well satisfied that beyond a little "noise and confusion" at the start they will accomplish nothing.

Knowing that our Government rests directly on the public will, in order to preserve it, we should endeavor to give a safe and proper direction to that public will. We do not expect all men to be philosophers or statesmen; but we confidently trust, and our expectation of the duration of government, rests on that trust, that by the diffusion of general knowledge and good and virtuous sentiment, the political fabric may be secure, as well against open violence and overthrow, as against the slow but sure undermining of licentiousness.

We are firm in the belief that the doctrine of the equal rights of all citizens before the law is just and right. The great principles of liberty and equality are fundamental to a truly Republican government. Having passed through the ordeal of rebellion and revolution they have, by their heat, been branded into our Constitution; not as dead letters, but as living, practical realities. And there they will remain.

We by no means endorse all Senator SUMNER says or does. But on the question of Amnesty and Civil Rights he is misrepresented. Amnesty he considers not a right, but purely an act of grace. It removes disabilities which intelligent men brought upon themselves in the full knowledge of the risks they run in provoking rebellion. On the other hand his Civil Rights measure he regards as an absolute measure of justice, founded in the nature and spirit of freedom. The first he insists is with held through law, the latter through prejudice. He says generosity should not go before equity.

New Hampshire will lead off the State elections of 1872 on the second Tuesday of March. She elects a Governor and Legislature. Last year, through local dissensions, the Democrats managed to carry her. This year we hope to see her renew the professions of the old faith.

We hold that now that the Government has given all its citizens the ballot, it is its duty to see that they have the means of casting it intelligently.

If the energy and labor was bestowed upon the land in this country that is required to make the cold and sterile soil of New England produce it would accomplish astonishing results. Here, with the short winters and generous soil, less is needed and, of course, less is done; but go to Maine where they garden with gun powder and blow rocks to plant potatoes where they have long winters and rocky soil we find that the effort required to live—the necessity for labor—makes men industrious, aye, and where men work we find them less dependent.

Every child that goes to school should be taught to think as well as memorize. The presence of the sun is followed by light, but not more surely than strength of intelect follows exercise of mind. The teacher who induces his pupils each day to think, to reason, to analyze, even for a few minutes, is blest with the assurance that they are mentally stronger at night than when they entered the school room in the morning. Thus with perseverence in intellectual things will

"——each to-morrow
Find them further than to-day."

State after State are holding their Conventions and nearly all are declaring for GRANT. The disreputable newspapers that are denouncing his policy and traducing his character are finding the former vindicated and the latter strengthened. The more these are discussed the stronger becomes the reaction in his favor. His renomination is certain.

It is a singular fact that every great measure intended to advance the educational interests of the masses enrage the Democrats. It does seem that they are reactionists by instinct, and that their whole party training has taught them to beware of any influence which has a tendency to enlighten the ignorant and improve the condition of the lowly.

Thursday last was the one hundred and fortieth anniversary of the birth of GEORGE WASHINGTON. Eulogy was long since exhausted in celebrating the praises of the Father of his Country. But while piety and patriotism burn together in the hearts of Americans, they will thank God for giving WASHINGTON to the country and mankind.

When General GRANT became President a $100 United States bond was worth $82 72 in gold; now it is worth $101, in gold.

New Books, Periodicals, &c.

Lippincott for March is on our table. "The Strange Adventures of a Planter," by the author of "A Daughter of Heth," constitutes the leading serial. The chapters are full of interest and serve to heighten the delightful excitement created by the opening portion of the story. Mr. Black is evidently a writer of extraordinary ability, possessing a delicate and minute acquaintance with character, and a most polished and graceful style. "Aytoun" progresses in a captivating way, and bids fair to win the sympathies of numerous readers. Mr. Whymper's "Scrambles Amongst the Alps," a narrative so full of bold and brilliant adventure, and so admirably illustrated by its talented auther, has reached its thirteenth chapter. "At Home with the Patagonians," by George Chaworth Musters, is an illustrated description of many strange experiences among a people almost unknown to the majority of readers. There are three poetical contributions in the present issue of Lippincott, "Blessed," by Lucy Hamilton Hooper, "Cupid's Lesson," by B. G. Hosmer, and "Into the New World," by Millie W. Carpenter. They are all of a character betokening on the part of their authors a cultivated fancy and polished taste. "The Empress Catherine on the Dnieper," by Vera Goetz, is an historical sketch relating chiefly to the interview which occurred between the Empress Catherine II. of Russia and the Emperor Joseph II. of Austria, on the banks of the Dnieper, during the famous journey made by the former sovereign from St. Petersburg to the Crimea. The author's grandfather was a chamberlain in the service of the Empress, was in waiting upon Catherine when the meeting occurred. From his statements the present paper has been compiled; and the interest which attaches to this graphic and able contribution is heightened by the fact that the Count de Segur, whose memoirs of Catherine are so widely known, was preventen, by his absence from the meeting, from giving any account of it. The second and concluding portion of "The First American Art Academy" brings the history of the institution down to the present time, and is embellished with an engraving of the new building which the Academy is about to erect for the accommodation of its treasures. The two papers form unitedly a very entertaining and authentic history of a noble and most worthy artistic enterprise. Judge Albert S. Bolles, in his vigorous and well-written article, "Trial by Jury," advocates the abolition of that species of trial in civil cases, and sustains his appeal by forcible and apposite arguments. "My Icicle," by Kate Hillard, is a very graceful and pleasing story, presented in a style commendable for its sprightliness and purity. Richard B. Elder's article, "Country Life in Virginia Now-a-kays," furnishes a very interesting account of the domestic and social condition of the agricultural classes of the "Old Dominion," and exhibits the effects which the late war has produced upon that portion of the population. "Our Monthly Gossip" is always full of good things, and among them there is, in this issue, a very humorous paper by Prentice Mulford, entitled "The Public Baby."

The March number of Old and New offers a well-chosen variety of agreeable and useful matter. Mr. MacDonald's Story, and "Six of One by Half-a-Dozen of the Other," all go forward with vivasity, the first and third having adventures and love-making in them, and the other the experience of a forlorn, good and courageous young woman. There are divers poems, too; a capital account of the great European working-men's society the "International," and some very sensible advice to Virginia, by E. A. Pollard, the rebel historian; a sprightly story of boating adventure on Charles River; a curious account of the Junius letters; and the usual instructive miscellany and book reviews. Terms (payable in advance), $4.00 per annum; $2.00 for six months. Single numbers, 35 cents (mailed, post-paid). Trial subscription of four months for $1.00. New Subscribers who send $4.00, for the year 1872, will receive free the last three numbers of 1871, and also "The Christmas Locket," a beautiful Holiday Gift Book. Subscriptions should be addressed to Geo. A. Coolidge, Business Agent, 143 Washington St., Room 1, Boston. Care of Roberts Brothers, Publishers.

The Atlantic Monthly for March is on our table. We have examined it carefully and we find it is not one whit behind its predecessors in the interest or value which beams from its pages. The contents are varied, and of superior quality. The subscription price is $4.00 per year, single; two copies $7.00; five copies $16.00: ten copies $30.00. Address James R. Osgood & Co., Boston.

NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE REFORM.

Neither Sumner, Schurz or their Democratic allies could have inaugurated the seaaching investigation which has been made. It was the Republican majority that voted the Committee and are entitled to the credit of refusing to shield any one, though professing to be a Republican, if guilty of corruption.

The change of the head of the Custom House which is impending means thorough and earnest work. The difference between Grant and his defamers is the same as that between him and some proclamation Generals, that he professes nothing, but does the work, while they profess everything and do nothing.

A PARTY WANTED FOR A CANDIDATE.

The Workingmen's Convention met at Columbus, Ohio, on the 22d instant and nominated Hon. David Davis, of Ill., for the Presidency and Hon. Joel Parker, of New Jersey, for the Vice Presidency. Mr. Davis is almost unknown to fame, though a Judge on the Supreme bench of the United States. The platform is intended to please everybody, but is most likely to please nobody, as it has in its planks representing principles which are the antipodes if each other. It is pretty well gotten up for doing that impossible thing of carrying water on both shoulders. The active men who have worked up opposition to Grant will not forgive the workingmen's convention for thus suddenly blocking their way to power.

OFFICE TO LET.

Collector Arthur of New York has resigned, and that important office has been tendered to Treasurer Spinner, who has not yet signified his acceptance of the $80,000 per annum.

ENGLISH-AMERICAN TROUBLES IN THE CABINET.

There was an extraordinary and extended Session of the Cabinet yesterday, just previous to their meeting, Hon. Chas. Francis Adams was presented by Mr. Fish to the other members of the Cabinet with whom he had some conversation and retired before the deliberations commenced. Earl Granville's dispatch on the subject of the American case as submitted to the Geneva Conference is represented as being entirely friendly in spirit. It is a simple statement that her Majesty's Government did not understand that consequential damages were covered by the Treaty of Washington or were to be submitted to the Geneva Conference. It does not demand a modification or with drawal of any part of the case and does not indicate belligerent feeling. The reply to it will probably be written out and presented to the Cabinet next Tuesday, and if approved, it will be in time for next Wednesday's steamer.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

Maine, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Indiana and Kansas have recently held Republican conventions which have unanimously endorsed General Grant, and recommended him for re-election.

The House Committee on Military Affairs has under consideration a bill for the consolidation of the the Commissary, Quartermaster's, and Paymaster General's Departments.

Senator Nye has the floor for a speech on Monday and will make the fur fly from some of the fancy feathered gentry. Besides brimming over with fun and jokes he has a way of putting things that tells home in whatever direction he wills with a force not excelled by the most critical logician. He is often in earnest when joking the most, as his adversaries have good reason to know.

A delegation of prominent citizens of Wilmington, North Carolina, had a hearing before the Sub-Committee of Commerce of the House yesterday morning, and urged a liberal appropriation by Congress for the purpose of removing the bar from the mouth of the Cape Fear river. C. M.

From Down the County.

SOUND NECK, Pasquotank Co., February 22d, 1872.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

This point is the extreme lower end of the county. It is a narrow neck of land bounded on each side by a creek, the strip of land extending down to opposite the mouth of the Pasquotank River and the Albemarle Sound meet in conjunction. The extreme end of the neck is called "Wade's Point." Years ago there there was a Wind Mill there, but it is now grown up with bushes, &c. This could be made a splendid place for summer resort. The air is in continued motion, a cool breeze stirring all the time. Not only is there a fine view of vessels passing to and fro, but the roar of old ocean can be distinctly heard.

There is now a good school in operation here under the change of Mr. JAMES C. BROTHERS. The citizens deserve credit for the interest they are taking in the education of their children. They are putting in practice the excellent suggestions made by the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

The health is good. A few weeks ago an aged colored couple died. Their names were Ben and Susan Gregory. They were aged about 80 years. C.

Edenton Items.

—Our churches were all open yesterday with good congregations in attendance.

—Fine weather; everybody gardening, and cleaning up the flower beds.

—Steamer T. E. Cahill arrived from Baltimore on the 21st.

—Judge Moor is absent on Judge Watts' circuit.

—Merchants complain of dull times and a scarcity of "Greenbacks."

—No business in the Mayor's Court.

—Lawyers are attending Washington County Court.

—Several colored men were arrested and imprisoned last week, charged with rioting during the last election. The Sheriff is active in "bringing the men in." Some of the parties arrested have been "bailed out."

—The Shad Market is beginning to open. Jake Wool, Harney Bond and Bob Mitchell are looking out for every shad they can buy. A shad costs something just now.

—Foster's Steam Grist and Saw Mills are doing a good business. He is a driving, go-a-head man from Pennsylvania.

—Whole fields have been planted in green peas, and a large yield is hoped for.

—The Streets of Edenton are full of baby carriages, and the little ones look mighty sweet.

—The pretty little Steamer Lota from Franklin Depot makes her regular trips carrying the U. S. Mail, Capt. Burbage, Pursel Edwards, and Route Agent Hammond are as "polite and smiling as ever."

—The health of Edentonians was never better: it always improves during Lent.

—The Grand Duke Alexis will not visit Edenton, as he has not been invited to do so.

—The ladies seem to have the happiest sort of time walking on Broad Street. Edenton was always famous for its beautiful ladies.

—The Schr's Beer sheba, and Tenie and Alice from Norfolk are in our Harbor loaded with Salt for the Fisheries of Capehart & Wood.

—The Steamers L. G. Cannon and Astoria "still sound their whistles," and their agent, Capt. Jas. A. Douglas, is still a happy business man.

—Few Northern men have visited Edenton this season. They ought to come and take a look at our surrounding country. Good bargains might be made —Norfolk merchants are doing a good business here. Several young men are in Norfolk from Edenton.

"ONCE A WEEK."

Congress.

On the 20th, in the Senate, Mr. Schurz made another speech on the resolution of inquiring into the sale of arms to France. Mr. Morton replied.——In the House, bills concerning appointments to office, forbidding any Member of Congress to make solicitations at the Departments, were discussed.

On the 21st, in the Senate, the discussion of the 20th was resumed.——In the House, bills were introduced to add thirty millions of dollars to the currency and to provide for the redemption of worn and mutilated bank notes.

On the 22d, neither House in session.

On the 23rd, in the Senate, the French arms affairs further debated.——In the House, the Deplomatic Appropriation bill was passed.

On the 24th inst., the Senate was not in session.——In the House debate.

On the 26th inst., in the Senate a bill was introduced continuing the mail service between the United States and Cuba. The debate on sale of arms continued.——In the House ninety bills were introduced under the regular call. The civil rights bill, introduced last Monday, came up in order, but was filibustered through the morning hour. A large number of bills for removing political disabilities were introduced, which, at the suggestion of the Speaker, were included in one bill, and all passed, without reading names.

Grant's Administration.

One of the pledges made by General Grant, upon accepting the nomination for President of the United States, was that he should conduct his Administration on the principle of honesty and economy. How well the last clause of this promise has been fulfited, says The Cincinnati Gazette we know from the large reduction in taxes, and the gratifying decrease, at the same time, in the principal of the national debt. In regard to honesty we spread before our readers evidence —not mere hearsay or guess work, but evidence, such as would be admitted in a court of justice—that proves, beyond controvercy, how wild and unfounded have been the charges against the present Administration.

The fact is, the efficiency of the Administration which has resulted in the exposure of frauds and the punishment of the guilty has been used by unscrupulous persons to blacken the character of officials to whose integrity those exposures are to be attributed. Take the Hodge defalcation for example. That commenced in 1866, under Johnson, and it fell to the lot of the present Administration to detect the fraud and punish the criminal; yet the Hodge matter was blazoned abroad as another evidence of the inefficiency of Grant.

The real responsibility for the miscon duct in office which has been disclosed since the 4th of March, 1869, is shown by the following comparison;

	No. of cases.	Amount involved.
Appointed under Buchanan	4	$5,156.22
Appointed under Lincoln	15	251,826.32
Appointed under Johnson	137	1,056,379.80
Appointed under Grant	39	320,104.41
War and navy officers	6	633,200.48

One other point to be noticed is this. Since the 4th of March, 1869, the aggregate receipts and expenditures of the Government have been $2,090,220,196.53. The net ascertained losses caused by the dishonesty of Government officials, including war and navy, during the same time, is $1,262,963.64, which is equal to one-sixteenth of one per cent on the dollar.

Of course, there are abuses in the Civil Service, as there are abuses in all service, public and private, and the aim should be to remove these. Of course, also, Grant, in exposing abuses and punishing offenders has done nothing more than his duty, but for what he has done he is certainly deserving of credit. It is not fair to denounce him as if he were responsible for all the misconduct that has been discovered, and as if he had done nothing to correct abuses and to prevent dishonesty. It will be found upon comparison, considering the magnitude of the Goverment transactions, that Grant's Administration compares most favorably with any that has preceded it. This will be the conclusion of the American people when they come to look at the facts, such as are presented in this paper, and those who continue to make reckless charges will find themselves utterly confounded when brought face to face with these facts.

Mental Recreation.

Mental diversion, mental exhilaration, mental release from the cares and business and worries of life, are not only essential to healthful thought and healthy condition of the mine, but they materially promote bodily vigor and physical well being. Amusements should more largely enter into American family life than they new do; it is the absence of it to too great an extent, which leads to many social evils, to many habits and practices which ruin the health and the morals of our sons and daughters in a great many cases. If boys and girls from fifteen and upward do not find amusements at home, especially during the long winter evenings, they sigh for places where exhilaration can be found; the sons for the street —the daughters for the dance, for the theatre, for visiting those of their associates whose homes are more lively.

Young people cannot be expected to have books and newspapers always in their hands, or sit demurely by the family fireside by the hour, in hemming and stitching and knitting. Games and pastimes should be more freely introduced into our families; there should be more off-hand visiting, of informal calls, where one neighbor can drop into another neighbor's house after dark, and spend an hour or two in unrestrained social intercourse, without form or ceremony, for two or three nights in every week; thus giving air, exercise and recreation.——Hall's Journal of Health.

Horace Greeley, in his tribute to Franklin, said: Let me sum up the character of Franklin in the fewest words that will serve me. I honor and revere him as a journeyman printer who was frugal and didn't drink.

Many people offer their prayers just as poor, shipwrecked voyagers send off their messages. They never look for an answer. They are in great doubt whether they will ever be received, And it would seem a wonderful thing, indeed, if such prayers were answered.

A fire occurred at Sharpsburg, Ky., on the 16th inst., consuming the Presbyterian church and five of the best business houses in the town. Three men were arrested, charged with causing the fire, and it was with difficulty that the mob could be prevented from taking the law into their hands.

Charles M. Whitman, the chief who robbed the dweling of Mr. William N. Jarrett, at Jarrett's Depot a few days since, was arrested at Weldon, N. C., on Thursday last. Whitman made a desperate effort to escape, by not only firing at the officer who was in persuit, but also by plunging into the Roanoke river and attempting to swim across. All the stolen property was recovered.

Before any young man who is paying attenton to a young girl in the West takes the risk of changing his mind he has to count the cost very carefully. A young lady in Council Bluffs, when informed by her supposed lover that he was going to cease his suit, cowhided him all about the room, and as he disappeared from the window declared that she would teach him to be careful how he trifled with a gentle and loving heart in future. We shall never cease admiring the spirit of the Great West.

There is a most extraordinary woman in Rutland, Vt. She has had rather a remarkable experience for a person only 33 years of age; for she has followed to the tomb two husbands, has been divorced from No. 3, and is now living with No. 4. Fourteen children have been the result of this rather miscellaneous marrying: and as the dame is still in the prime of life, she can be married much more, and make further additions to the population of Vermont.

That the farmer needs to be surrounded by producers who are not farmers—who will buy and consume his products, and thus minister to his need of many things which he cannot advantageously produce—I have often argued, as I hope to do again and again. Than the farmer, I hold no other producer more deeply interested in, more signally profitted by, that benignant policy which steadfastly seeks to diversify our National Industry by fostering and building up, all over our country, every kind of manufacturing, mechanical, and mineral production.—Horace Greeley.

A curious illustration of the effect that surrounding objects and every-day companionship have upon the actions and nature of things is found in the following: An Illinoisian, having a puppy which was troublesome in the house, shut him up with the chickens. The puppy soon made friends with his feathered companions, played with them, and passed his puppyhood away, and as he became old enough to exercise his vocal powers, what was the astonishment of his master when, instead of barking, as is common with the canine family, he boldly mounted his "hill," and crowed forth a morning greeting, in which he has acquired a proficiency which charms all those who have been fortunate enough to listen to his performance.

Various paragraphs relating to longevity are just now journeying through the newspapers. Notably, we have the Rev. George Cotton of Yarmouth, Me., who, being three score and ten, has just led to the altar hymeneal a vergin aged 45. What was curious was that the said altar was set up in an orchard, but the ceremony had one advantage over the open-air nuptials of Adam and Eve, for 500 friends assisted at it. Secondly, we are told that Mrs. Jere. Beebe of Waterford, Conn., age 90, having been considered dead for a week, has so come to life that she has eaten a hearty dinner of cabbage and pork! Then Mrs. Hannah Andrews of Lowell, Me., age 102 years, is really dead and mourned by five generation of descendants—200 of them in all! She had a pension from the Government, and deserved it.

A person looking at some skeletons the other day, asked a young doctor present where he got them? He replied: "we raised them."

A little girl asked her sister what was chaos, that her papa read about? The elder replied, "It was a great pile of nothing, and no place to put it in."

Major Meadows, a respectable citizen of Stokes county, while cutting timber to burn a plant-bed, last Friday, was instantly killed by a limb falling and striking him on the head.

Mr. Dempsey Gardner, who died in Edgecombe county a week or two ago at the advanced age of 102 years, had been living with his wife, who survives him, eighty five years.

An Iowa lady concludes an anti-suffrage letter as follows: "You may look at this matter in what light you will, but simmer it down and it is but a quarrel with the almighty that we are not all men."

Governr Caldwell, by and with the consent of the Council of State, has made the following appointments of Directors under the late decision of the Supreme Court: On the Penitentiary Board, Alfred Howe, colored, Gen. Dockery, John R. Harrison, G. W. Welker, and Jacob Allen. Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and Blind, Handy Lockhart, colored, Timothy F. Lee, John Nichols, L. E. Heartt, Dr. W. H McKee and J. B. Nearthery. The Asylum for the Insane has the same Board, with the exception that Hood, colored, takes the place of Brodie, colored.

H. H. Helper, the noted individual who through pipe-laying and wire pulling, succeeded in being appointed Post master at Sallisbury, N. C., has been removed for cause. We learn he is now exerting himself to oppose the present administration. If we expect to permanently succeed as a political organization, we must be more careful, how we allow such unprincipled men, (as many who have joined the Republican party,) to thrust themselves into prominent positions, and thus bring our party to disgrace. We should beware of those gentlemen (?) who are Republicans, only for the "loaves and fishes."—New Berne Republican.

A Proclamation.

BY HIS EXCELENCY, THE GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Raleigh, Feb. 20th, 1872.

WHEREAS, The General Assembly of North Carolina on the 8th day of February, 1872, passed an act entitled "An Act to lay off and establish a new county by the name of Pamlico," out of portions of the counties of Craven and Beaufort counties, said new county of Pamlico to be bounded as set forth in said act; and

WHEREAS, It is provided in said act that the bill for the formation of said county of Pamlico together with the obligation to pay its proportionate share of the debt of Craven and Beaufort counties, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the territory to be formed into said new county for acception or rejection, and that if a majority of the votes cast in that portion of Beaufort county proposed to be cut off shall be against the new county, it shall not form a part thereof; and

WHEREAS, In an act entitled "An Act supplemental to an act to lay off and establish the new county of Pamlico, ratified the 10th day of February, 1872, it is made the duty of the Governer to order an election to be held in Pamlico county, on the first Thursday in May, 1872, submitting to the qualified voters within the limits of Pamlico county, the adopion or rejection of the said county of Pamlico;

Now Therefore, I. Tob R. Caldwell, Governer of the State of North Carolina, in obedience to the requirements of the above recited act, do issue this my Proclamation, ordering the Sheriff of Craven county to open polls and hold an election at the usual voting places within the territory embraced in the said new county of Pamlico, on the first Thursday of May, A. D., 1872, (the polls to be opened and the election to be held in all respects in accordance with the laws of the State,) at which election the said qualified voters favoring the establishment of the said county of Pamlico, will vote a written or printed ticket bearing the words: "Against the County of Pamlico."

And the returns of said election shall be made to the Sheriff of Craven county, who shall on the first Monday after said election in the presence of three freeholders summoned for that purpose, (two of which shall be from the county of Pamlico) proceed to compare the polls of said election, and if after due examination it shall be found that a majority of votes have been given in favor of establishing the county of Pamlico, it shall be the duty of said Sheriff to forward to the Governer of the State a certificate of the same within ten days after said election, that the Governer may make proclamation as required by said act.

Done at our city of Raleigh, the 20th day of February, A. D., 1872, and in the 96th year of American Independance.

TOD R. CALDWELL.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call attention to the following new advertisements in this issue.
Wreck sale.
Hair Tonic.
A proclamation.

Local and Personal.

☞ "Edenton Items" will be read with interest.

☞ His Honor Judge POOL will hold Court in Bertie County next week.

☞ Easter Sunday falls this year on the 31st of March.

☞ Our farmers are now busy putting in their potatoes and preparing their corn ground.

☞ We understand that "Leap Year Clubs" are being organized throughout the country by young ladies. Look out.

An excellent place to go when hungry—Fulmer's Eating Saloon on Water Street.

☞ The Post-master General requests that in future the county as well as the post office and State be superscribed upon all letters, circulars, newspapers, &c., to be forwarded by mail in order that the sorting and distribution of the mail may be facilitated.

☞ From various sources we see the name of Hon. JOHN W. ALBERTSON, of Perquimans, urged as the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor. Mr. ALBERTSON is one of the ablest men in Eastern Carolina and his name would give weight as well as dignity and character to the ticket.

☞ By advertisement of the "Wreck Sale," published in another column, it will be seen that the vessel ashore referred to in our last issue was the schooner "Willie," of Baltimore. She was making a return trip from Mayuguy with a large cargo of sugar. We are glad to learn that there were no lives lost.

☞ Our readers have observed that the paper on which the NORTH CAROLINIAN has been printed for the past two months has not been clear and white. To save trouble and annoyance we have been in the habit of purchasing our paper in large quantities at a time. Unfortunately the last lot sent us by our manufacturer was of the quality and color we are using. In a few weeks more this lot will be exhausted, when we hope to secure a better article.

☞ "A Citizen"—whose letter is a little too personal, and so we don't publish it—complains of a neighbor whose business it seems to be to raise and "break in" young canines for service. He says the continual howling and barking of the "young pups" very seriously interferes with his peaceful slumbers at night, and he is beginning to be afraid that the debit columns of the Recording Angel's ledger is about filled up with his curses. He wants to know what to do? We can do nothing more than offer him our sympathy.

☞ The men who mope, and pine, and grumble over, on account to themselves or to the community in which they live. They not only refuse to do anything themselves but try to prevent others from doing anything. Every town is afflicted, more or less, with these drones, and Elizabeth City has not been an exception. But fortunately the live element—native and immigrant—have got things started in spite of the draw backs. Slowly, we admit, but as surely as the day follows the night, the work of Improvemont is going on. The future is auspicious.

☞ It is time for those who have been trying to discourage enterprise and dampen popular energy by their disheartening prophecies and lugubrious views of everything that is suggested for the advancement of the community, to step aside. Let those who are willing to do something—who are not afraid of spending money to make money—have a fair chance. Encourage and help them, for as they succeed the town is improved and every interest is advanced.

☞ C. W. HOLLOWELL is one of the largest and most successful farmers in this county. Possessing enlarged views, imbued with the liberal spirit of progress, he isn't afraid of innovation and improvements. He is willing to test new implements, new seeds, new modes of culture—proving all things to decide which is best. Knowing our interest in all these matters, and that we too are a farmer in a small way, he has decided to test our skill in potato raising. He has presented us with three seed potatoes of the "Thorborne Late Rose" variety and asks us to try them. We have planted them and will report at the proper time.

☞ Every permanent improvement made on the streets in every part of the City just adds so much to the assessable value of the real estate thereon, and hence, besides adding to the appearance of the town, the cost will soon come back in the shape of just that much more taxable property. It adds to the revenue going into the City Treasury. The widening of Fearing Street, for instance, has not only made it a very pretty street and increased the value of the property thereon, but already fine new residences are being put up on it. Before any work was done on Shepard Street the East end of it was impassable for weeks at a time; now it is not only the prominent promenade of the City but new buildings are going up there also. So on other streets. The truth is, improvements pay in more senses than one. Let them be continued.

☞ Among the northern arrivals since our last, we notice JOHN BODINE and lady from New York, and CHARLES STECK from Berrysburg, Pa.

☞ Where people see a man advertise they know he is a business man, and his advertising proclaims that he is not above business, but anxious to do it.

☞ Our Devil isn't very old, but he says he has lived long enough to observe that although young men's affections may not always be strong, they are sure, somehow, to be Miss-placed.

☞ In answer to "Inquirer," we would say that the first advertisement ever published in a newspoper is said to have appeared in the London Mercurius Politicus in 1602.

☞ Rev. L. S. REID, Presiding Elder preached an able sermon in the Methodist Church last evening. A sketch of the Reverand gentleman appeared in last week's CAROLINIAN.

☞ Our Fishermen are preparing their nets for the Spring work. The Shad season has opened in Dare and Tyrrell, and the operations for Herring will begin next week.

☞ A "Skating Rink" has been organized at this place under the management of Mr. CHARLES SKINNER. The "opening exercise" commenced on Monday evening. The "Rink" is held in WOOD'S Hall on Road Street.

☞ We see that his Excellency Gov. CALDWELL has nominated to President GRANT for appointment as Commissioner, to represent North Carolina at the Centennial Anniversary of American Independence, Gen. ALFRED DOCKERY, of Richmond Co., alternate J. W. ALBERTON, of Perquimans Co.

☞ Among the attractions on Road Street are the new and fancy Top Buggies of MILES COMMANDER. On every pleasant day they are exhibited to public view, and they make a splendid appearance. MILES is a good fellow and he says he is prepared to sell at "bottom prices."

☞ The strangers who visited our town two years ago and pays us a visit now will observe, among other evidences of advancement, the number of new and elegant signs put up at the business places of our merchants, professional and business men. Then there was scarce a sign to be seen at any store, shop or office. Now the exception is the other way.

☞ We learn that on the 22d five men were drowned near Oregon Inlet. They were connected with the wrecking vessel of the BAKER Brothers. Their names were John Lewis, George Maloney, Charles E. Maxey, white; Miles Wilson and Burwell Richardson, negroes. They had landed the messenger from the Schooner "Willie," but upon the return of the boat through the surf, it struck some unseen obstacle, 'broached too,' and were drowned.

☞ A correspondent chides us for not being sufficiently radical and severe in our political articles. It may be unfortunate that he is not the editor of the CAROLINIAN, but as he is not, and we occupy that distinguished position, we propose to be guided by the judgment that has never yet failed us. If attempts are made to resurrect the dead past—to revive the era of hostile bitterness—to foment the feeling of sectional hate—to fan the embers of the "lost cause," it must come from the other side. We want peace; the country demands it; THE SOUTH NEEDS IT. Our influence is exerted in that direction. Realizing that it never can be accomplished by the Democracy we shall continue to oppose it by reason and argument and not by abuse and billingsgate—doing all in our power to influence our readers from committing the blunder of supporting it, and saving the country from the calamity of passing under its control.

LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

Court plasters—kisses. The best counter sign—no trust. Slight of hand—refusing an offer. A pledge of real love—popping the question. Apple pie order—apples in side, crust outside. A personal obligation—to eat. Behind time—the back of a clock. The laps of time—old coat tails. Endowed with an excellent mewcous membrane—some of our visiting cats. A good rule—never put off 'til to morrow what should be done to day. Quite busy the past week—several of our lawyers. Delightful—the weather. Taking our advice and leaving—some of the "dead beats." Happy riddance.

A gentleman visiting Norfolk, says he called at the House of Lowenberg & Jacobs, 35 Market Square. He says he'll go again. Let our readers do the same.

Ten cent lectures are among the latest things in Iowa.

The largest sale of cotton ever made in Savannah, Ga., by any one firm took place on the 26th. Messrs. Wm. Henry Wood & Co., sold 3,561 bales, 410 of which were sold to Messrs. Knoop, Hanneman & Co. The total value of the 3,561 bales is about $350,000.

A minister at a colored wedding, who wished to be humorous, said: "On such occasions it is customary to kiss the bride, but in this case we will omit it." To which ungallant remark the bride groom pertinently replied: "On such occasions it is customary to pay the minister $10, but in this case we will omit it."

W. L. Stone, in a recent lecture said that the Confederate archives were buried in an unknown spot in Georgia by David Tilghman, who died with the secret; whereupon Alexander H. Stephens, copying the gist of the story in The Atlanta Sun, says: "We see the above statement going the rounds of the papers. We give it to our readers as a specimen of the sensational articles or news of the day, and to say to them that it belongs to that class of news which, in modern times, is properly characterezed by the word, icanard."

SINKING SLOWLY.—Diseases that progress rapidly to a crisis are not the only ones to be dreaded, Cancer or dry rot does not blast a tree as suddenly as a stroke of lightning, but unless arrested it destroys it as certainly; and in like manner chronic debility, although it does not kill with the swiftness of yellow fever, is as sure to sap the springs of life eventually as any acute disease, if not checked by invigorating medication. There is something inexpressibly touching in the spectacle of premature decay. Languor, pallor, emaciation, depression of spirits, and a diffaste for exertion, are its ordinary symptoms, and they should be promptly met by tonic treatment. The best invigorant and exhilerant that can be administered in a case of this kind is Hosteter's Stomach Bitters. The stimulating principle of the prepara ion rouses the dormant energies of the system, and the strengthening and regulating properties give a permanent and healthful impulse to the vital forces thus brought into play. The failing appetite is re-awakened, the process of digestion and assimilation are quickened, the quality of the blood is improved, the excretions become more natural, and every organ at contributes to the nourishment of the body undergoes salutary change. By these means the repair of the physical structure is effected and its health and vigor restoed. In no class of diseases has the beneficent operation of the Bitters been more marked and striking than in those characterized by general debility and nervous prostration. Ladies affected with those ailments find in this most wholesome of all tonics and correctives the safest and surest means of releif. It is strong to restore and powerless to injure. Such is the uniform testimony of clouds of witnesses."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BEWARE OF CALOMEL.—And all Mercurial Compounds. Better, far better endure disease, than tamper with this mineral poison, no matter how carefully prepared. Its extensive use has already proven the cause of great and distressing injury. DR. TUTT'S LIVER PILLS contain not a particle of Mercury, and can be taken at all times with perfect safety.

Yazoo County, Miss., May 3 1869.

Dr. Wm. H. Tutt:
I have been a martyr to Liver Complaint for three years, and after employing the best of Doctors, and spending almost all I was worth for different kinds of medicine your agent induced me to try your Liver Pills. I have taken them regular for several weeks, and have seen so much benefited by them that I feel confident of a perfect cure. I consider them the best Liver Medicine ever discovered. J. CRAPON.

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye Colors a Beatiful Black.

YOU ARE TROUBLED WITH A BAD BREATH, it annoys your friends as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant Sozodont; it will cleans and beautify your teeth and leave your breath pure.

BYRNETT'S STANDARD FLAVORING EXTRACTS—Lemon, Vanilla, &c. Charge your servants and dealers and observe that they do not substitute in their stead any of the pernicious unpalatable extracts with which the market is flooded. Burnett's Standard Flavoring Extracts are established as the strongest, purest and the best made.

THE TERRIFIC DUEL Between Prussia and France is over, but thousands of battles between Dr Walker's Vinegar Bitters and Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are now going on in every State of the Union. The issue of such contests is never for one moment in doubt. The conflict may last longer in some cases than in others, but the leading Vegetable tonic and alterative of the nineteenth century, invariably triumphi.

FOUTZ'S
CELEBRATED
Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

Dissolving Bones in Caustic Lye.

To accomplish this it is necessary to break the bones into fragments and pack them in a tight shallow box with an equal weight of good sound wood ashes. Mix with the ashes, before packing, twenty-five pounds of slacked lime and twenty pounds of sal soda (carbonate of soda) to every one hundred pounds of the ashes. The box in which to conduct that process may be made of rough boards, but it must be tight, and it should not be over eighteen inches deep. It may be as broad as necessary. The bones should be packed in layers; first upon the bottom a layer of ashes, then a layer of bones, and so alternately until the box is filled. About twenty gallons of water must be poured upon the heap (that is, for every one hundred of bones) to saturate the mass, but more may be added from time to time to maintain permanent moisture. In three four or six weeks, the bones will be broken down completely, and the whole may be broken up together, after adding an equal bulk of good sifted soil. This compost is of the highest efficacy, as it embraces quite all the great essentials of plant food, namely, potash, soda, lime, phosphoric acid, and the nitrogenous element. This is a very convenient way for farmers who have ashes, to dispose of their store of bones. If plenty of ashes can be procured, it will faciliate the decomposition of the bones to employ twice as much ashes as there are bones; the solution will be effected sooner, and more perfectly.

If powdered bones are employed, a barrel of the powder may be mixed with a barrel of good ashes, and the whole turned into the halt of a molasses cask, moistened with two bucketfuls of water, and stirred up well with a hoe. In a week this will be ready for use, it and forms an efficient and most convenient fertilizer for all the cereal crops. We think it does more for corn, in giving plump, full kernels, than any concentrated fertilizer we have employed. A handful is enough for a hill, put it at the time of planting. Before dropping the seed, a little earth should be kicked over the powder, so that it may not come in direct contact with it.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

Keeping Eggs for Winter.

At diffierent times I have read in your paper many ways in which farmers, wives lay in their eggs for winter use, but I never saw the way I do it, simple as it is, if I have only good eggs, and good eggs everybody must have, or they will not keep in any way. In August I generally commence saving eggs, and am very careful to save only good and fresh ones. I take boxes which hold about 1,200, put on the bottom a layer of oats, and set my eggs all point downwards, so that not one touches the other, until the layer is full: then cover with oats and make another layer, and so on until the box is full, and then cover and set in a cool, dry place, where it does not freeze, until used. I have followed this way for the last twenty years, and cannot say that I ever lost more than one or two out of fifty, and then generally found that it was knocked or put down unsound. I use small boxes, so that I can use first the eggs which I put down first. I have never thought of changing my way, although I have read so many ways to do it, for instance, in ashes, in fat, in lime, in limewater, and even varnishing them, because my way seemed to me the simplest and cleanest, and I am just as sure to have good eggs next February and March, which I lay in now, as I can have good eggs now. There is no danger of having any musty taste to the eggs if you keep them in a dry place, and are careful to use dry oats.—A Farmer's Wife, in Country Gentleman.

Carrots for Horses.

Practical experience has demonstrated beyond a doubt that horses are benefitted by liberal root feeding. The action of this kind of diet upon the animal is to keep his digestive organs in a healthful condition. There are those who do not hesitate to assert that a bushel of carrots is equal to two bushels of oats for a horse. Now, while my own experience has fully satisfied me of the great value of carrots for horse food and especially for the patient stable horses, that are kept on dry food the whole year round, I am not prepared to place quite so high an estimate upon their value as that. That they do possess extraordinary medicinal qualities, none who have tried them will deny. An experience of not a few years has satisfied me that carrots fed to horses during the winter, and especially after the first of January, have a most beneficial effect upon them. They act, when not fed in excessive quantities, as a mile aperient, and appear to have the desirable effect of admirably fitting the animals for hard work of the spring. I am now speaking of my farm horses.

For livery stable keepers they would, it appears to me, possess a double value.—Horses kept the year round in large cities, and especially livery stable horses, rarely get a mouthful of green food. Dry hay and grain, without either grass or roots, is their daily and yearly food. I can very well imagine how greatful to the poor beasts an occasional feed of roots must be and how strongly humanity appeals for them. As carrots can be grown as cheaply as corn, and yield five times as many bushels to the acre, I cannot conceive of any good reason why they should not form a part of livery stable provender.

Spoiling Horses' Feet

It is almost impoisible to get a horse shod without having the frogs cut away. All veterinary surgeons, all horse men, all leading blacksmiths, agree that the frog should not be pared one particle—not even trimmed. No matter how plastic and soft the frog is, cut it away smooth on all sides, and in two days it will be dry and hard as chip. You might as well cut off all the leaves of trees, and expect them to flourish, as to pare away the frog and have a healthy foot. The rough, shongy part of the frog is to the foot what leaves are to the tree—the lungs.

2. Never have a red-hot shoe put upon the foot to burn it level. If you can find a blacksmith that is mechanic enough to level the foot without red-hot iron, employ him. The burning process deadens the foot, and tends to contract it. If you do not think so, try the red-hot poker on your finger-nail, and see how it will effect the growth of that.

There are many other important points in shoeing horses, but these two are of more importance than all the rest, even to the apprehension of men not skilled in horses, and the two most disregarded.—Mirror and Farmer.

"I fear there are persons who regard their home as a royal restaurant, "said Henry Ward Beecher, Sunday morning, 'They think it is a place in which they are to swill and grunt and sleep."

A Pennsylvania paper, in speaking of a songstress, says: "She beats cats on high notes There was no Music or chest tone in her voice, but it was about six octave about the screech of a lost Indian."

The three stages of Drawingism are now said to be positive, tail; comparative tailor; superlative, tailless!

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, a dall in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 196 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $5,000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3,500, $7,00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splendid stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splendid barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 350 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A tract of valuable land, containing 356 acres, with fine two story dwelling containing 9 rooms and cook-room. Servant's house with 3 rooms, large barns and stables, all necessary and convenient out-houses, 3 tenant-houses near town, and immediately on the River. About 100 acres of this land is in fine wood and timber, balance in a fine state of cultivation. It has 8,000 grape vines one year old, 3,500 peach, apple and dwarf pear trees, five acres in strawberries which yielded an immence profit this year, ten acres in Lawton and other rare varieties of black-berries, 15 to 20,000 young peach trees with other choice fruits too numerous to mention. This farm has a public road on one side, and the River on the other, where strangers come daily to the landings to receive the fruits and vegetables, and carry them down to Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia or New York. The land is finely adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, and all other field crops.

The owner of this farm offers to sell in tracts to suit purchasers, say from 50 to 100 acre tracts and at prices ranging from $5 to $80 per acre, according to location, buildings, &c.

There is also on this farm a fine fishery, where a seine 1,000 yards long, and 20 feet deep is hauled every Spring. Herring, Shad, Rockfish, Sturgeon and other valuable fish, are caught by thousands at every draw of the seine. And the profits are frequently large. This fishery of itself is worth nearly as much as is charged for the whole property. The terms will be liberal. This is probably the finest opportunity offered any where for a profitable advestment.

☞ Fishery has an office, and two houses for hands besides fish house. Then some 500 to 1,000 loads of best fish manure on hand, besides over 5,000 loads of compost made ready for use. This goes with the farm.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

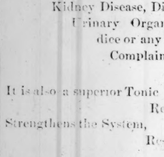
TO SPORTSMEN.—

The ubscriber would announce to his friends and the public that he continues at the old stand on Road street and keeps on hand a good assortment of Guns, Rifles, Pistols, Sporting apparatus and also a fine selection of cutlery. He may at all times be found either in his store prepared to accommodate customers with New Goods, or in his shop adjoining, willing and happy to repair any article in his line of business.

29—1y. GEO. W. BELL.

HAVING SECURED THE SERVICES OF THE best mechanics in each of the departments, and giving my own particular attention to all work done at my shop, I feel safe in saying that my work will compare favorably with that of any of the large cities. All I ask is an examination of my work to convince those in want of any kind of a vehicle that this is the place to buy them.



Repairing done at short notice and at reasonable rates. Give me a call.

LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY

OF

NORTH CAROLINA.

Incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina, December 17, 1868.

CAPITAL STOCK - - - - $300,000,00.

General Office: Elizabeth City, N. C.

OFFICERS

C. H. ROBINSON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS

J. M. WEED, WM. UNDERWOOD, CHARLES W. SMITH, N. R. ZIMMERMAN AND G. B. THOMPSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We feel confident that this City is destined to become a large place and property will advance rapidly. Emigration is now tending Southernward and the feeling is in universal favor toward Elizabeth City.

A large two story dwelling known as the Parsonage, with fine double Piazza front and back, large out kitchen, stables, carriage house, with 17 acres of ground well enclosed. This ground is all within the corporation of the City, and is well situated to lay out in building lots and make out of it ten fold the price asked for it.

A two-story dwelling containing ten rooms, 10,000 gallon cistern and all necessary out-houses, with large lot. Situated on Main Street. A Vacant Lot no better located and not so large as this was sold recently for $1600 each.

A large brick store house and wharf situate on Water street; in E. City, comprising three lots with 400 feet of water front permanently wharfed for the accommodation of large vessels. There is erected on these lots a large two-story brick building, 50 by 80 feet, well fitted up for a wholesale or retail trade at present occupied by the "Yankee Store."

A large wood store on west side of Water street 36 by 60, two stories high, being one of the best stands on Water street for merchandizing.

A House and Lot on Riverside Avenue. House 20ft front by 50 ft deep. Containing eight rooms with Pantry and Cellar, all well finished, modern style, and having all necessary out buildings. The lot contains a front of 400 ft, and would be a good location for a large shop or foundry as one whole side fronts on the water.

Also a large number of Wharf Lots, Mill Lots and Vacant Lots at very low prices, some of which are enumerated below. The Wharf Lots are 200ft deep and will be sold to any size desired along the River. Among them are some most eligible situations for Store Houses, Mills and Manufactories of any kind as there is a fine harbor immediately in front of them, having 30ft of water, sufficient for vessels of any capacity. Along Pennsylvania Avenue are offered some of the finest and choicest lots, for dwellings in town at prices varying according to location. This will be the finest street in town, is 80 feet wide, size of Lot 100ft front by 200ft deep. There are now a number of first class residences being erected on this street. Immediately in the vicinity of these Lots the Company have erected a large Planing Mill, Sash, Blind and Door Factory at a cost of near $20,000 and also their Saw Mill at a cost of near $15,000. That now is the proper time to invest in those Lots there can be no doubt, as they will double in value in a very short time. Lots not near so good as these, are now selling in other parts of the City at more than double the price asked for these.

VACANT LOTS.

Lots Nos. 150, 155, 158, 161, 163, 165, 167, 170, 172, 175, 178, 180, 182, 185, 187, 190, 193, 195, 198 and 200, situate on Pennsylvania avenue, in the new extension of Elizabeth City, all choice lots, intended for the better class of residences. Size of lots 100 feet front by 200 feet deep. Price varying, according to location, from $100 to $1000.

TOWN LOTS.

Lots Nos. 250, 253, 255, 256, 258, 261, 263, 266, 267, 268, 271, 283, 285, 287, 288, 289, 291, 296, 299 and 300, situated on various Streets in the new extension of Elizabeth City, size of lots 50 feet front by 100 feet deep, at prices varying from $25 to $100.

MILL LOTS.

Four Mill-Lots situated on Knobb's Creek, so that logs can be taken from the creek to the mill. These lots have 200 feet each of water front, and over 600 feet deep to Mill street, and are choice sites. The purchaser will also have the right of storage for logs in the boom.

PASQUOTANK COUNTY.

The Land and Lumber Company also offer for sale, one thousand acres of their timbered land along the Main Road leading from Elizabeth City to Hertford and Edenton. Said land heavily wooded, soil very rich and about four miles from Elizabeth City. This land will be sold in lots to suit purchasers and at the low price of ten dollars per acre.

They also offer a tract of three thousand acres in Lots to suit purchasers, near the Pasquotank River, ten miles from Elizabeth City and three miles from South Mills. This land is heavily set with wood and also has upon it a vast amount of sawtimber, and has a most excellent soil. This is a fine location for a small Colony. There is now a Public Road running directly through it. This tract is offered at the low price of eight dollars per acre if sold to one party, or at only a fraction more if divided into small lots.

The Company will also sell their farm of 150 acres two miles from Elizabeth City. 125 acres cleared and under good cultivation, well fenced, having upon it two dwelling houses, one new and the necessary out buildings wanted on a farm, and will be sold on very reasonable terms.

Also another farm one mile from Elizabeth City containing one hundred acres, between thirty and forty acres cleared and under cultivation, the balance is now being cut off and is nearly ready to be cleared up and cultivated. This property is very desirable being so near the City though for reasons first given will be sold at a very low price.

We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water transportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. This will also make good farm land—will be sold for one thousand dollars.

Also one other tract of land containing 154 acres situated immediately on the Pasquotank River ten miles from Elizabeth City, valuable for wood, and is excellent farming lands would be sold for six dollars per acre.

GATES COUNTY.

The Land & Lumber Company have a tract of 350 acres of timbered land one half mile from Chowan River and three miles from Winton the county seat of Hertford county. This body of land is well timbered and will be sold at the low price of three dollars per acre.

☞ The most direct and cheapest route is to go to Baltimore by N. C. R. R., then Bay Line steamer to Norfolk, Va., then steamer to Elizabeth City, N. C.

VINEGAR BITTERS

R. H. McDONALD & CO., Druggists and Gen'l Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 22 & 24 Commerce Street, New York.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system, of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.
